PREFACE

THE first edition of the Register, published in 1889, was compiled under considerable difficulty. Since then, however, the entries have been verified with the College books and any errors or omissions rectified.

The original entry forms filled in by the parents or guardians of boys have also all been gone through. Unfortunately these in the earlier years of the College are very incomplete. Those remaining have been carefully sorted and arranged in chronological order, but a large number appear to be irretrievably lost. Those of later years are quite complete.

The present edition of the Register has been compiled on similar lines to the former one, brought up to date as far as possible, and also contains considerable additional matter in the shape of classified lists of Old Cheltonians who have taken Holy Orders, or went into the Civil Services or Naval, Military, Legal, and Medical professions, besides a Cheltonian Peerage, Baronetage, Knightage, etc. These should prove specially useful for reference purposes.

After each boy's name the information, where obtainable, is put down in the following order: Father's (or Mother's) name and address, Class (or Form) and Department (or Side) on entering College, and the same on leaving, name of Boarding House, date of leaving, scholastic and athletic honours attained at the College, and subsequent career when known. These details are the result of much labour and research.

To quote from the preface of the former edition:

"The old method of naming the classes at Cheltenham would probably prove totally unintelligible to those unconnected with the College, and for their benefit it may be perhaps as well here to explain that formerly Classes were numbered from 1 downwards, and these again were divided into A and B, some into C and D, others into P (Principal's side) and V.P. (Vice-Principal's side). 1^a was the highest class in each Department. Besides these, certain others were called Addiscombe, Woolwich, Civil, Direct, Line, Sandhurst, Naval, Special, Preparatory, Latin, and India Civil. In September, 1889, all this was abolished, and the plan substituted was that which was in force at all the great Public Schools; the word Form took the place of Class, and the Sixth Form then became the highest, the First Form the lowest."

In September, 1905, a yet further change was considered desirable and made, viz., the College to contain two Departments only—a Senior and a Junior, the Senior to be divided into three Sides—the Classical Side, the Military and Civil Side, and the Modern Side. Independent of these also there are Special Forms.

My thanks are due to many Old Cheltonians who very kindly gave me their valuable assistance, and more especially to Lieut.-Colonel A. Crawford, R.A., late Assistant Military Secretary at the War Office, Lieut.-Colonel C. C. W. Troughton, Honorary Secretary of the Cheltonian Society, and Mr. B. H. Soulsby, of the British Museum.

Although every possible care has been taken to avoid errors, yet in a work of this nature they are practically unavoidable; but it is hoped that they may be more of omission than of commission.

At some future time doubtless another edition will be required: may it then be done by a more able hand.

A. A. H.

THE COLLEGE, CHELTENHAM.

CHELTENHAM COLLEGE REGISTER

INTRODUCTION

IN the minutes of the Governing Body—who then were called Directors, which name was subsequently changed to Council—it is stated that at a meeting held on 26th November, 1840, it was resolved:

“That the warm thanks of the Meeting be given to G. S. HARCOURT, ESQ., and to CAPTAIN IREDELL for the great zeal and exertion they have displayed in originating and bringing to its present state of forwardness this important undertaking,” i.e., in founding Cheltenham College. With them were associated in a lesser degree several well-known local residents who gave their hearty support to furthering the scheme thus initiated.

The centre houses (Nos. 7, 8, and 9) in Bayshill Terrace were the first home of the College, and a piece of ground opposite, about $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres in extent, was used as a temporary playground. It was here on 21st July, 1841, that the College opened, and the actual first boy to enter it—his father having sent him there a day too soon by mistake—was Henry James, now Lord James of Hereford, and President of the College Council.

Various grounds were looked at for a permanent place in which to erect the future buildings for the College, and finally a suitable one was chosen, called Sandford Field, the property of Lord Northwick, and here the College was built from the plans of Mr. James Wilson, of Bath.

The new buildings were formally opened on Speech Day, 22nd June, 1843, and great rejoicings appear then to have taken place, as among other items of expenditure there is one of £2 “paid to the ringers of the parish church for ringing the bells.”

The numerous workmen employed on the building of the College were not forgotten either in the rejoicings, for “they were regaled by the Directors with an excellent dinner of roast beef and plum pudding, etc., in the large schoolroom (Big Classical), as a reward for their uniform good conduct during the period of its erection,” at which several speeches were duly delivered.

Such was the beginning of Cheltenham College, and as the numbers increased from time to time, so the necessary additions were made to the buildings.

The original block, which forms the frontage, consisted of the Big Classical and adjacent Class Rooms, and the Gymnasium, which in 1850 was converted into the Big Modern. In 1853 the Classical and Modern wings were built. Then came the Old Chapel in 1856, which subsequently (1896) became the Library, when the present Chapel (erected to commemorate the Jubilee of the College) was completed. The existing Gymnasium was built in 1864; the Junior School in 1865 (shortly to be used for other purposes when the new Junior School buildings in the Lake House grounds are completed); the Workshops in 1876; and the College Baths in 1880. Besides all these, additional playing fields and grounds have been acquired at various times in the immediate vicinity of the College, as can be seen by looking at the plan.

For books containing full details of the College and its buildings the reader is referred to the Cheltonian Bibliography included in this Register (p. 9).

H. V. PAGE, ESQ., The College, Cheltenham.

At a large meeting of Old Cheltonians, held at the Freemasons' Tavern, Long Acre, on 30th June, 1868, the Cheltonian Society was founded.

The objects for which this Society was founded may be briefly stated to be: to aid and encourage the interests of Cheltenham College, both Scholastic and Athletic, and to form a bond of union between past and present Cheltonians. It tends to preserve a good feeling and a connection between the past and present Members of Cheltenham College, and endeavours materially to further the interests of the School.

The funds of the Society are exclusively spent in giving prizes for School work, and in contributing to defray the expenses and promote the prosperity of legitimate games for the boys, according to the discretion of the Committee.

Two Annual Scholarships each of £20 per annum, tenable for three years, have been founded by the Society, and are open only to the Sons of Members or deceased Members of the Society, whether at the time of the examination they are Members of the College or not.

The minimum Donation is fixed at One Guinea, so as to put it in the power of every Old Cheltonian to become a Member, though larger donations have been, and will be, thankfully received.

The Donation is of the nature of an Entrance Fee, and no further donations or subscriptions will be asked for or need be given.

The Journal of the Society, giving news of the doings at the College and of Old Cheltonians, and a List of Members with their Addresses, is sent yearly to every Member of the Society.

The Meetings of the Old Cheltonian Lodge, No. 3223, consecrated 7th May, 1907, are held at The Temple, Gaiety Restaurant, London, on the first Tuesday in the months of February, May (Installation), and November.

The Society has been in existence forty-one years, during that time over 3,300 Old Cheltonians have joined it; and the Committee feel that the success which has attended their efforts fully justifies them in appealing to the Old Cheltonians who are not already Members to become so, and give their assistance in still further increasing the numbers and usefulness of the Society.

Every information will be gladly afforded by the Hon. Secretaries.

CHELTENHAM COLLEGE MISSION

The forerunner of the present College Mission in South London was the Town and College Industrial School, founded in 1882, the work being carried on in the poorer districts of Cheltenham, chiefly for the employment of young lads.

In 1889 the College ceased its connection with this School, and in the following year had assigned to it a poor district of 5,000 people in the parish of St. Antholin, Nunhead. It can be reached in twenty minutes by train from the Victoria or City Stations of the South Eastern and Chatham Railway.

The Mission Buildings consist of an iron church with two Mission Halls, and a Coffee Tavern and Club House. There is also a day-nursery in which children whose mothers go out to work are cared for. The Settlement House, at 41, Linden Grove, Nunhead, has always accommodation for Cheltonians who visit the Mission, and there is a Cheltonian gathering once a year in January, at which the Principal of the College presides.

Besides the church services there is social work of various kinds carried on by means of clubs and societies, and in co-operation with the Camberwell Distress Committee, the Children's Holiday Fund, the Children's Free Meal Fund, and the Charity Organization Society.

Cheltenham College assists by offertories, subscriptions in the Boarding Houses, entertainments given in the Big Classical, and presents of old clothes and other useful things.

Subscriptions from Old Cheltonians, and donations for the building of a permanent Church, are gratefully received and acknowledged by the Treasurer of the Mission at the College, Cheltenham, or by the Missioner, 41, Linden Grove, Nunhead, S.E.

Cheltonians, past and present, are earnestly invited to visit the Mission as often as possible.

The following is a list of the Clergy who have been attached to the Mission:

REV. W. J. SALT, M.A., 1890-March, 1894.

*REV. H. R. CHAPPEL, B.A., 1891-December, 1893.

REV. P. D. HORNBY, M.A. (O.C.), April, 1894-December, 1896.

*REV. N. H. A. JOHNSON, B.A., December, 1894-October, 1896.

ARMORIAL BEARINGS

From the year 1874 to 1896 certain "arms" were used which, however, were never authorized by the Heralds' College. In the latter year the matter was taken up by the Cheltonian Society, and a Committee appointed consisting of Colonel (now Major-General) J. C. Dalton, R.A. Mr. R. W. Raper, and Mr. A. A. Hunter, to take all necessary steps for obtaining proper armorial bearings. The sanction of the Council of Cheltenham College having been received, Sir Albert Woods, K.C.B., Garter King of Arms, was communicated with, and one of his designs was duly selected by the Council. The date of this grant-of-arms by the Heralds' College is 7th August, 1896, and the grant itself is placed in the College Library.

Described heraldically the arms are :

"Per bend gules and sable, on a bend or between two swords in saltire, in chief, argent, pomels and hilts gold, and a fasces erect in base of the third, a mullet of the first between two fleur-de-lis of the second."

The fasces and cross-swords represent the Classical and Military sides respectively, the fleur-de-lis and the mullet or star are taken from the arms of the Rev. W. Dobson and the Rev. T. A. Southwood, who practically made the College what it is by their successful labours.

COLLEGE BOARDING-HOUSES AND HOUSE MASTERS

All the existing large Boarding-houses, with the exception of Boyne House, Newick House, and Southwood House, were erected during the Principalship of Dr. Barry. Beaufort House, which was for many years used as a Boarding-house, was abolished in 1888. Besides those already mentioned, there are several small private houses, where a few Boarders are taken in by the College Masters.

Endless stories are told illustrative of his resolute dealing with the refractory tribesmen of the Afghan and Belooch border. On one occasion, it is said, an Afghan or Belooch chieftain objected to the presence of the English in the country; whereupon "Buster Browne"—to use the sobriquet by which he was universally known to Anglo-Indians—threw the man bodily into a river, or, according to one version, across it. Another border notable—the story goes—challenged him to personal combat, and paid for his temerity with his life. Died at Quetta, Beloochistan, 13th June, 1896. On jumping in, he shot the first man dead with his revolver, and his party then came up and entered the stockade, which was of a most formidable nature, surrounded by a bamboo palisade; about seven yards within was a log-house, loop-holed, with two narrow entrances, and trees laid latitudinally, to the thickness of two feet. The officer commanding reports that if Major Channer, by his foresight, coolness, and intrepidity, had not taken this stockade, a great loss of life must have occurred, as from the fact of his being unable to bring guns to bear on it, from the steepness of the hill, and the density of the jungle, it must have been taken at the point of the bayonet." Served with the expedition against the Jowaki Afreedees in 1877 (clasp). Served with the 29th Punjab Infantry in the Afghan War of 1878-80 with the Koorum Field Force, and was present in command of the regiment at the attack and capture of the Peiwar Kotel (mentioned in despatches, Brevet of Lieut.-Colonel, Medal with clasp). Late Major, 4th Battalion West Riding Regiment (Militia). Awarded the Royal Humane Society's Silver Medal for the following act: "On the 31st August, 1887, about 11.15 a.m., a lady (Mrs. Crowther) was bathing with her five daughters and two little boys in a secluded spot, near Downderry, Cornwall. Half a gale was blowing, with a heavy sea. Three of the daughters had remained longer in the water than the others; when about to return to the beach, they found themselves unable to do so, and were carried out by the heavy sea. The mother at once swam to their assistance, but was also carried out. Captain Williams, on arriving at the place, found several persons attempting to reach the ladies. He at once ran along the rocks, and, throwing off some of his clothes, swam to a sunken reef some distance out. Another man followed, but, after facing the sea for a short time, became exhausted, and commenced to return to the beach. Captain Williams, after supporting himself on the sunken reef for a few seconds, proceeded to the outer sea, where the elder lady appeared to be floating in a lifeless condition. He succeeded in reaching her, and swam about 100 yards towards the shore, when Mr. Tiltman (who at first followed) again came to his assistance, and by their united efforts the lady was eventually saved. The rescued lady was about 300 yards from the shore when Captain Williams reached her. The three young ladies were unfortunately drowned." Captain Williams was also awarded the "Quiver" Silver Medal for the above act.
